

Mark Trewin FMHC

Mark Trewin is the Mental Health Social Work Lead at the Dept of Health and Social Care, working in the office of the Chief Social Worker. He is also the chair of the New Roles in mental health social work group operated in partnership with Health Education England. Mark was on the working group of the Mental Health Act Review and is part of the Centre for Mental Health Equalities Commission.

Mark has worked as a mental health social worker, an approved social worker/AMHP, a forensic social worker, team manager and a trainer in health and social care. For over 10 years he was the senior manager in health and social care mental health services – initially in supported housing and day services at Bradford District NHS Care Trust, and then for social care and social work mental health services at Bradford Council, working with a range of agencies in a ‘whole system’ mental health partnership.
